

Natalie Klyashtorny

Natalie Klyashtorny is a Shareholder of Nochumson P.C., where her practice focuses in business and commercial counseling and litigation and employment law.

In addition to litigating in both state and federal courts, Natalie counsels and represents individuals and small and medium-sized businesses in commercial transactions, real estate disputes, business disputes and with regards to their employment and work force issues.

Since 2015, she has been named by Philadelphia Magazine as a Super Lawyer in the field of Business Litigation, and, previously, in 2007, 2008, 2010, 2011 and 2012, she was named by Philadelphia Magazine as a Pennsylvania Super Lawyer Rising Star.

Natalie is active within the legal community, having served as Assistant Treasurer of the Philadelphia Bar Association and currently serving as a member of its Cabinet and Co-Chair of its Entrepreneurial Incubator. She also served a three-year term as an elected member of the Philadelphia Bar Association's Board of Governors from 2013 through and including 2015. In 2019, she co-chaired the Philadelphia Bar Association's Bench-Bar & Annual Conference, which is its premier event for legal education and networking and socializing with colleagues and members of the judiciary.

Natalie had previously served as the Chair of the Philadelphia Bar Association's Young Lawyers Division, overseeing numerous professional development and community service committees and authoring a monthly column on issues of relevance to the legal community. During her term in office, she created "Philadelphia 2020", an ongoing initiative to educate and involve the legal community in advocating for and implementing reforms to make Philadelphia a more attractive destination for businesses and individuals alike. She also previously served as Co-Chair of the Philadelphia Bar Association's City Policy Committee in 2008 and as Co-Chair of its Solo and Small Firm Management Committee in 2010.

Additionally, Natalie served as a voting member of the Philadelphia Bar Association's Commission on Judicial Selection and Retention, investigating and making recommendations regarding the fitness of candidates for the state judiciary, and is currently a member of the Investigative Division of the Judicial Commissions of both the Philadelphia Bar Association and Pennsylvania Bar Association.

Natalie is also the Vice-Chancellor of the Louis D. Brandeis Law Society and a member of the Temple American Inn of Court, an organization dedicated to promoting collegiality between the bench and bar where she regularly interacts with sitting judges, practicing attorneys, law professors and students to discuss and debate issues relating to legal ethics and professionalism.

She is admitted to practice in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the State of New Jersey, the District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, and the District Court for the District of New Jersey.

Natalie received her undergraduate degree from American University and graduated from Temple University School of Law.
